

Functional Boundary

The Alaska Airlines scheduling portal is related to the Alaska Airlines employee portal because they both give employees resources to be able to succeed in their career and find out more information about what is required from them. Alaska Airlines scheduling portal is an element of the larger system of Alaska Airlines. For Alaska Airlines to function properly, pilots and flight attendants must be able to view bid sheets, bid for their schedule, view their monthly schedule, see trip details, and trade trips. If pilots and flight attendants are able to do that then they will show up to work when they are scheduled and are less likely to no-show or call out. Clearly, the Alaska Airlines scheduling portal gives the larger system the ability to function properly. The Alaska Airlines Scheduling Portal will be available for pilots and flight attendants to access from the employee portal.
